Interesting question. I thought the impetus for the hearing was the concern that we were squabbling with the Navy over the percent falsification, rather than moving on to sampling phase. Media not really aware of our debate over percent to resample but then ocii and or Dph may have filled her in on our discussions at monthly meetings where we air our differences in path forward.

Hmm. We don't even talk about path forward much, nor a timeline. Wonder if we should. Probably too late now. We can answer during q and a period if necessary

I was debating whether this meant the rad data evaluation 97% issue or the path forward? I called Brittini and left her a message asking for clarification. I also told her Enrique will leave 3:30 pm.

Hearing on Clean-up Methodology and Timeline at Hunters Point Shipyard

San Francisco, CA – Supervisor Malia Cohen introduced a hearing for the Board of Supervisors to discuss the clean-up timeline and disputes between federal regulators and the United States Navy on the percentage of Parcel G to be retested, along with the methodology for retesting soil at Hunters Point Shipyard.

Confirmed presenters include:

United States Navy

Tetra Tech, Inc.

United States Environmental Protection Agency

San Francisco Department of Public Health

San Francisco Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure

“I look forward to hearing from the scientists and technical experts who I have invited from the agencies responsible for this expansive timeline of events about ongoing claims of mismanagement,” said Supervisor Cohen. “Monday is an opportunity to directly address the accusations and resounding concerns from my constituents. Neither the City nor the public has received fair or timely information. We deserve clear answers.”

The hearing will take place in the Land Use and Transportation Committee on Monday, May 14, 2018 at 1:30 pm.
